In-House Training for Safe Environment cancelled: The in-house training for Safe Environment that was scheduled for Sunday, October 20 has been cancelled and might be rescheduled if needed. We are also still working out the kinks with the online Virtus program.

The Partition for Electronic Equipment is nearing completion: Work is almost finished on the partition that will create a space for electronic equipment within the room that is currently used as a library and little kid playroom. We hope to have that multi-purpose room fully useable soon. For more information, or to help, please talk to Jim Snead or Paul Santos.

Converts gain much in becoming Catholic. Do they give up anything in the process? Here is a reflection on the life of newly canonized St. John Henry Newman:

"In mid-19th-century England, that [becoming Catholic] meant giving up his professorship at Oxford and being cast out of the English establishment. He lost many colleagues and even dear friends; perhaps his most moving sermon is entitled "The Parting of Friends" about the cost of his conversion to Catholicism.

And the Church into which Newman entered both honored and tormented him. What place was there for a refined English scholar in a Church of the working-class Irish? We remember that, in making Newman a cardinal, Pope Leo XIII gave definitive approval to his life and work, but it came when he was 78 years old. For much of Newman's Catholic life, he was asked to make great sacrifices for a Church that often appeared ungrateful."
